OttReach: Science in the Parks 2009

With generous support from Weber County RAMP and the Utah Families Foundation, Science in the Parks is returning to a location near you this summer. The program brings fun science to the parks in Ogden, allowing kids and their families to see, hear, touch, and build science from some everyday stuff. Each day of the week provides its own theme and a new set of things to play with. In addition, this program is tied with Ogden School District's free lunch program in each location. So, come eat and play -- all for free!
